

Hardware

The Casablanca Solitaire digital video editor from MacroSystem Digital Video combines a 3.2GHz processor, dual-layer DVD burner, two removable hard drives, and more into a single video editing solution.

MacroSystem Digital Video,
5485 Conestoga Court, Boulder, CO
80301; (877) 554-2846;
www.casablanca.tv

The Alienware Bot custom-built desktop system delivers increased input/output bandwidth, Intel High-Definition Audio, dual channel DDR2 memory, and Intel Celeron D processors, all for $579.

Alienware, 12400 Southwest 134th Court,
Bay 8, Miami, FL 33186;
(305) 251-9797; www.alienware.com

Users can expand the functionality of their laptops with the IOGEAR USB 2.0 Docking Station. The station includes an Ethernet port, two PS/2 ports, audio-in and -out jacks, serial port, and three USB 2.0 ports, and it is compatible with Windows 2000/XP/Me/98SE.

IOGEAR, 23 Hubble Drive, Irvine, CA
92618; (866) 946-4327; www.iogear.com

The Follett Falcon handheld scanner works with the company's Destiny Resource Management Solution to give educators access to real-time library, patron, and textbook information from anywhere within range of the school's wireless network.

Follett Software Company, 1391
Corporate Drive, McHenry, IL 60050;
(800) 323-3397; www.fsc.follett.com

Software

For students in grades K-8, the Canvastic integrated writing and publishing program from FlatTop Technology and TeachTech includes tools for the creation of maps, diagrams, and graphs. Kids can also import pictures and text and export their creations to common formats, including QuickTime movies.

Canvastic, Inc.,
12635 Flagg Drive,
Suite 101, Lafayette,
CO 80026;
(303) 359-9836;
www.canvastic.com

Take It to the Computer—Writing
Sentences and Paragraphs from

Free Technology & Learning Webinar on:

Networked Learning Communities

An audio and slide presentation detailing one district's experience in building a network from the ground up and the benefits the network brought to educators, students, and parents. Presentations by administrators.

www.techlearning.com/events/index.html

Sponsored by

